TRAiL
Winter 2004

STUDENTS
Shauna Kainer, 4th year social work (Okanagan University College)
Andrea Northcott, 3rd year physiotherapy (University of BC)
Mira Robin, 4th year occupational therapy (University of BC)
Charlotte Suttie, 4th year pharmacy (University of BC)
Paula Womacks, 3rd year nursing (Selkirk College)

IRPBC

What is it?
A program that teaches and encourages interprofessional teamwork amongst health care students in a rural setting

Who participates?
Senior health care students from several post-secondary institutions across the province

Where does it happen?
Trail, Hazelton, Bella Coola, Fort St. John, and Port McNeill

IRPbc goals
• To model and evaluate interprofessional learning among health professionals
• To expand the capacity for educating health professionals in BC
• To support the recruitment and retention of health professionals in rural areas

IRPbc is a great opportunity to learn, with other health disciplines, how best to meet clients’ needs
—Physiotherapy Student

www.bcahc.ca/irpbc

Interprofessional Rural Program of BC
A program of the BC Academic Health Council